Advent Prayer

God of gentle love

Show yourself to us in this Advent season

In times of stillness, remind us of the joy of your gift to us

As we gather with community, hold us close to your faithful presence

When prayer is all there is, help us to be constant

We are your people

And you are our God.

Amen

Greetings

“There is some good in this world, Mr Frodo, and it is worth fighting for”. Words that we reflected on in the sermon on Sunday and words that have stuck in my brain all week. Can I reflect further on one aspect of this ‘good’ that is in the world? I believe that this world is filled with good people, and it is these good people that are worth fighting for.

As I have been reflecting, I have asked myself the question, “What is the nature of the fight?”.

It is the fight for our own ‘goodness’, the courage to make choices that reflect the Kingdom of God in us. Yes, we are also counted amongst the ‘good’.

It is a fight within each of us to overcome any prejudice and stereotype that we carry that would judge a person by their circumstance rather than their inherent value as a person or their character.

It is the fight against cultural norms that would categorize people and marginalize them from full participation in our community.

It is the fight against injustices, systems that force people into poverty, systems that disrespect people’s life experience.

It is the fight for peace, a ‘war’ that we need to wage if only on our knees. There are good people suffering and dying at the hands of power-hungry leaders who care nothing for the innocent people whose lives they are ruining. We need to be their voice, not only in national media, but in our everyday conversations and prayer to God.

I have always hated relating the terms ‘war’ and ‘fight’ to our Christian faith. There are times however when the odds seem so not in favour of goodness and obstacles so large that our actions need to be equated with a ‘fight’. It is a fight because it is hard, and it needs courage to address it.

And, it is so worth the effort!

This article was also inspired by Delena West’s talk at Wednesday fellowship on the work she is doing caring for vulnerable children. Please pray for all the courageous people who work daily ‘fighting’ for a better life for our children in Aotearoa. Let us all do everything in our power to bring peace, love and goodness into every circumstance we encounter every day.

God bless.

My husband, Barry and I are so very thankful for the caring and cooking we have received this year from the St. Margaret's congregation. It seems our age has caught up with us, but, thanks to God, I am now on the mend, but Barry is still laid low.

The meals and goodies received have linked me to my church family again when I haven't been able to come to church. So, a grateful, prayerful "thank you" to those who have planned the meals, cooked them and distributed them with such grace. God bless you all.

Board of Mangers

I had someone at church on the morning of the day I wrote this article commenting on how much has been achieved this year, it was someone who was seeing the new kitchen for the first time. The comment just put this year into perspective for me. So much has happened. I am saying this because this is the article for the November newsletter – November! What has happened to the year?

In the last month the new notice board has gone up near the front wall of the grounds for our advertising. Thank you to Ray Betteridge for making the metal frame and to Ray and Richard for erecting it for us. As I write this article, the final paint 'touching up' is being done to the kitchen. In November we will be dealing with the wood-rot on the front of the church and the whole exterior of the church will be painted – very exciting.

The one area of our church buildings that needs addressing is drainage. We have some significant challenges getting water off our property, which needs to be addressed. If anyone knows of a water drainage engineer, or where we can find one, please let me know.

As always, a very big 'Thank You' goes to all the members of the Board of Managers who do amazing work to keep our facilities and finances running smoothly.

Regards, Rodney
